A History of Algebraic and Differential Topology 1900 1960

Written by a world-renowned mathematician, this classic text traces the history of algebraic topology beginning with its creation in the early 1900s and describes in detail the important theories that were discovered before 1960. Through the work of Poincaré, de Rham, Cartan, Hurewicz, and many others, this historical book also focuses on the emergence of new ideas and methods that have led 21st-century mathematicians towards new research directions.

A History of Algebraic and Differential Topology 1900

"[The author] traces the development of algebraic and differential topology from the innovative work by Poincaré at the turn of the century to the period around 1960. [He] has given a superb account of the growth of these fields. The details are interwoven with the narrative in a very pleasant fashion. [The author] has previously written histories of functional analysis and of algebraic geometry, but neither book was on such a grand scale as this one. He has made it possible to trace

This book painstakingly describes and explains algebraic topology in the chronological order of its development. I quite agree with Glen Bredon's remark in his "Geometry and Topology" that goes like "this is more than a history and should be in the bookshelf of every student of topology" (not word-for-word, as the citation is done offhand).
